3.1 INTRODUCTION

GCCSA exists to fully represent the students of Glasgow Clyde College, GCCSA acts as a student voice within the college, and is focused on improving the overall student experience. Its goal is to continue to improve the student experience, and become a bigger voice within the college, truly representing students through effective consultation.

GCCSA has fully engaged with the student population of Glasgow Clyde College to ensure it meets the needs of its members. From initial inductions talks for students to Fresher's Fayre and a host of activities and events, the needs of the members are clearly identified and addressed. A clear infrastructure has engaged students in their learning through specific training, relevant events, volunteering opportunities, clubs and societies, campaigns and through a robust class rep system. This has been supported by strong partnership working with the College to ensure the student voice is heard and acted upon. Full interaction with College management and active participation at College and Regional Board level has seen the development of a robust engagement framework for student associations across the country to follow.

Multiple communication channels are in place to inform, consult and support members and College staff work with GCCSA to promote a proactive advocacy and mediatory role to ensure students are at the centre of activities and decisions.

The GGCSA has led to positive engagement with groups and individuals. The recruitment of over 600 class reps has been the key mechanism for student engagement. Student representation is at the heart of GCCSA activity and whether that takes the form of individual activities or one-to-one access and support, the positive impact upon students has been clearly evidenced. Initiatives including learning and teaching projects, employment opportunities, LGBT events, OCD support group or ASL activities have had a significant impact upon the students and wider community.

The GCCSA have worked closely with the wider community to promote opportunities for volunteering with over 100 volunteering opportunities identified by the GCCSA for student participation. The establishment of a welfare fund has supported students should they encounter short-term financial hardship and encouraged students to stay on programmes where they may have previously been unable to continue.

The system of class representation has been structured and developed to ensure that all student groups have full representation. Student groups where there has traditionally been an underrepresentation or where there are high levels of vulnerable students have been actively targeted for engagement with the new Additional Support Class Rep Meetings. ESOL learners and supported learning students have fully participated in class representation and provided to be the inspiration for projects and activities within the College.

The GCCSA has a positive profile on a local, regional and national level. The work initially focused upon the grass-root development of a robust structure of student representation and has flourished through engagement with College management, active participation at College Board level and Regional Board level to promote the interests of students in Glasgow Clyde College but also the wider Glasgow Region and in National campaigns.

The GCCSA has been fully supported by teaching and academic staff to promote the interests of students and has become an integral part of College life and decision making. Full access to College Senior Management has supported the development and profile of the GCCSA and the willingness to work in partnership has been hugely beneficial to students. The GCCSA has developed a high profile within the FE sector by fully engaging with external stakeholders to the College including community groups, local employers and other College Student Associations, but has pursued student representation at a regional and national level through discussions with the Scottish Funding Council, Scottish Government and senior politicians. Planning is well advanced for session 2015/16 to build on the success and impact of the GCCSA with further engagement tools and a range of development projects already in the pipeline.
